Court No. - 28

HON'BLE PRAMOD KUMAR SRIVASTAVA, J.

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellant and learned A.G.A. for the State.
2. The present appeal under Section 374 (2) of the Code of Criminal Procedure has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 12.07.2007 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge (F.T.C.-3), Faizabad in Sessions Trial No. 203/1996 (State Vs. Chaitu @ Kuber and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 221/1993 under Sections 379/511 I.P.C., Police Station Malipur, District Ambedkar Nagar, convicting and sentencing the appellant for the offence punishable under Section 379 read with Section 511 I.P.C. and sentenced him to one year of rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 1,000/- with default stipulations.

3. The prosecution case is that on the night of 20/21.12.1993, at approximately 12:00 midnight, five thieves arrived at a government tubewell with the intent to steal a transformer. The villagers, who had been patrolling the area due to a previous theft, raised an alarm ("Chor-Chor") and managed to apprehend two individuals at the spot: Triloki Nath Pandey (who later succumbed to injuries) and the appellant, Chetoo alias Kuber. Upon interrogation, it was revealed that their accomplices, including Rakesh and Ram Chandra, had fled the scene.

4. On the basis of the written report (Ex. Ka-1) submitted by the complainant, Krishna Murari, the case was registered as Crime No. 221/1993 under Sections 379/511 I.P.C. at Police Station Malipur, District Ambedkar Nagar.

5. The Investigating Officer during investigation visited the place of occurrence, prepared the site plan, recorded the statements of witnesses, and recovered incriminating items including two bicycles. After completing the investigation, a charge sheet was submitted against the accused persons namely, Chaitu @ Kuber, Rakesh and Ram Chander under Sections 379/511 I.P.C..

6. That further after submission of charge-sheet before Court of learned Magistrate the said case was committed to the Court of Session where it was registered as S.T. No. 203/1996. The trial court framed charges against the accused persons under Sections 379/511 I.P.C., to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

7. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined seven witnesses: PW-1 Krishna Murari (complainant), PW-2 Baijnath, PW-3 Ram Jiyawan, PW-4 Suresh Chandra, PW-5 Ramesh Chandra Mishra, PW-6 Ram Anuj, and PW-7 S.I. Sita Ram.

8. After completing the evidence by the prosecution, the statements of the accused were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded by the trial court explaining the entire evidence and attending incriminating circumstances, whereby the accused-appellants denied the prosecution story and evidence against them. They specifically stated that they have been falsely been implicated in this case.

9. Thereafter, the learned trial court, after hearing the learned counsel for both parties and appreciating the oral and documentary evidence, found the appellant Chaitu @ Kuber guilty and convicted him, while acquitting the co-accused Rakesh and Ram Chandra due to lack of evidence regarding their presence at the scene.

10. Feeling aggrieved and dissatisfied with the impugned judgment and order of conviction, the accused-appellant-Chitu @ Kuber has preferred the present appeal before this Court.

11. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that although he has preferred the appeal against the judgment of conviction and order of punishment, but at this stage, he only intends to press the appeal in respect of sentence only and does not want to press the appeal on merit.

12. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the State of Uttar Pradesh has its own local law of probation i.e. Uttar Pradesh First Offenders Probation Act, 1938. He further submitted that the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 (Central Act) (herein after referred as the Act of 1958) is also applicable in the State of Uttar Pradesh as held by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Mohd. Hashim Vs. State of U.P.; (2017) 2 SCC 198. Thus, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that it is upon the discretion of the Court to grant benefits in either of the Acts.

13. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the incident took place 32 years ago and there is no further criminal antecedent against the appellant. At present the age of the appellant is about 65 years and he may be given benefit of first offender and appellant may be extended the benefit of Act of 1958. He further submitted that appellant is first time offender and he is not previously convicted in any case. He further submitted that it is the Court which may consider the benefit of Section 4 of the Act of 1958 to the accused-appellant.

14. Learned A.G.A. on the other hand opposed the appeal and has submitted that there is no material irregularity or illegality committed by trial court and keeping in view the evidence on record, accused-appellant has been rightly convicted.

15. Learned A.G.A. further states that the benefit of Section 4 of the Act of 1958 could be extended to the accused-appellants on certain stipulations as specified in Section 4 of the Act of 1958.

16. Before dealing with the contention of learned counsel for the appellants, it is useful to quote Sections 3 and 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958:

“3. Power of court to release certain offenders after admonition.-

"Where any person is found guilty of having committed an offence punishable under Section 379 or Section 380 or Section 381 or Section 404 or Section 420 of the Indian Penal Code, (45 of 1860) or any offence punishable with imprisonment for not more than two years, or with fine, or with both, under the Indian Penal code, or any other law, and no previous conviction is proved against him and the Court by which the person is found guilty is of opinion that, having regard to the circumstances of the case including the nature of the offence, and the character of the offender, it is expedient so to do, then, notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, the Court may, instead of sentencing him to any punishment or releasing him on probation of good conduct under section 4 release him after due admonition.

Explanation.-For the purposes of this Section, previous conviction against a person shall include any previous order made against him under this Section or Section 4.

4. Power of Court to release certain offenders on probation of good conduct.- (1) When any person is found guilty of having committed an offence not punishable with death or imprisonment for life and the Court by which the person is found guilty is of opinion that, having regard to the circumstances of the case including the nature of the offence and the character of the offender, it is expedient to release him on probation of good conduct, then, notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, the court may, instead of sentencing him at once to any punishment direct that he be released on his entering into a bond, with or without sureties, to appear and receive sentence when called upon during such period, not exceeding three years, as the Court may direct, and in the meantime to keep the peace and be of good behaviour:

Provided that the Court shall not direct such release of an offender unless it is satisfied that the offender or his surety, if any, has a fixed place of abode or regular occupation in the place over which the Court exercises jurisdiction or in which the offender is likely to live during the period for which he enters into the bond."

17. Section 4 of the Act of 1958 is applicable where a person is found guilty of committing an offence where punishment is neither life sentence nor death. The Court may release such an accused on probation of good conduct on their furnishing a bond as mentioned in the Section. The Court in applying the provisions of this section is also required to consider the circumstances of the case, character of the offender and nature of the offence before exercising its discretion.

18. So far as the prayer of learned counsel for the appellants for providing benefits of Section 4 of the Act of 1958 is concerned, it is essential to discuss the legal position and law propounded by the Apex Court.

19. That Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ratan Lal vs State of Punjab AIR 1965 SC 444, while discussing the purpose and object of Probation of Offenders Act, 1958, has observed in para no. 4, as follows:—

"4. The Act is a milestone in the progress of the modern liberal trend of reform in the field of penology. It is the result of the recognition of the doctrine that the object of criminal law is more to reform the individual offender than to punish him. Broadly stated the Act distinguishes offenders below 21 years of age and those above that age, and offenders who are guilty of having committed an offence punishable with death or imprisonment for life and those who are guilty of a lesser offence. While in the case of offenders who are above the age of 21 years, absolute discretion is given to the court to release them after admonition or on probation of good conduct, subject to the condition laid down in the appropriate provision of the Act, in the case of offenders below the age of 21 years an injunction is issued to the court not to sentence them to imprisonment unless it is satisfied that having regard to the circumstances of the case, including the nature of the offence and the character of the offenders, it is not desirable to deal with them under Ss. 3 and 4 of the Act.”

20. Further the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ved Prakash vs State of Haryana (1981) 1 SCC 447 : AIR 1981 SC 643 while discussing on the duty of Bench and Bar regarding compliance of Section 360 Code of Criminal Procedure read with Section 4 of Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 was pleased to observe as under:—

“The offence, for which conviction has been rendered, is one which will be attracted by S. 360 or at any rate the Probation of offenders Act, 1958. The materials before us are imperfect because the Trial Court has been perfunctory in discharging its sentencing functions. We must emphasise that sentencing an accused person is a sensitive exercise of discretion and not a routine or mechanical prescription acting on hunch. The Trial Court should have collected materials necessary to help award a just punishment in the circumstances. The social background and the personal factors of the crime-doer are very relevant although in practice Criminal Courts have hardly paid attention to the social milieu or the personal circumstances of the offender. Even if S. 360 Cr.P.C. is not attracted, it is the duty of the sentencing Court to be activist enough to collect such facts as have a bearing on punishment with a rehabilitating slant. The absence of such materials in the present case has left us with little assistance even from the counsel. Indeed members of the bar also do not pay sufficient attention to these legislative provisions which relate to dealing with an offender in such manner that he becomes a non-offender. We emphasise this because the legislation which relate to amelioration in punishment have been regarded as ‘Minor Acts’ and, therefore, of little consequence. This is a totally wrong approach and even if the Bar does not help, the Bench must fulfil the humanising mission of sentencing implicit in such enactments as the Probation of offenders Act.”

21. That it is also noteworthy that this Hon'ble Court in the case of Subhash Chand vs State of U.P. 2015 Law Suit (All) 1343, has emphatically laid down the need to apply the law of probation and give benefit of the beneficial legislation to accused persons in appropriate cases. This court issued following directions to all trial courts and appellate courts:—

“It appears that the aforesaid beneficial legislation has been lost sight of and even the Judges have practically forgotten this provision of law. Thus, before parting with the case, this Court feels that I will be failing in discharge of my duties, if a word of caution is not written for the trial courts and the appellante courts. The Registrar General of this Court is directed to circulate copy of this Judgment to all the District Judges of U.P., who shall in turn ensure circulation of the copy of this order amongst all the judicial officers working under him and shall ensure strict compliance of this Judgment. The District Judges in the State are also directed to call for reports every months from all the courts, i.e. trial courts and appellate courts dealing with such matters and to state as to in how many cases the benefit of the aforesaid provisions have been granted to the accused. The District Judges are also directed to monitor such cases personally in each monthly meeting. The District Judges concerned shall send monthly statement to the Registrar General as to in how many cases the trial court/appellate court has granted the benefit of the aforesaid beneficial legislation to the accused. A copy of this order be placed before the Registrar General for immediate compliance.”

22. Further the Hon'ble Apex Court in State of Maharashtra vs Jagmohan Singh Kuldip Singh Anand (2004) 7 SCC 659 has extended the benefit of The Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 to the appellants, and observed as under:—

“The learned counsel appearing for the accused submitted that the accident is of the year 1990. The parties are educated and neighbors. The learned counsel, therefore, prayed that benefit of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 may be granted to the accused. The prayer made on behalf of the accused seems to be reasonable. The accident is more than ten years old. The dispute was between the neighbors over a trivial issue of claiming of drainage. The accident took place in a fit of anger. All the parties educated and also distantly related. The accident is not such as to direct the accused to undergo sentence of imprisonment. In our opinion, it is a fit case in which the accused should be released on probation by directing them to execute a bond of one year for good behaviour."

23. That coming to the point of desirability of extending the benefit of Probation Act to the accused/ appellants in Sitaram Paswan and Anr v/s State of Bihar AIR 2005 SC 3534 Supreme Court held as under:-

"For exercising the power which is discretionary, the Court has to consider circumstances of the case, the nature of the offence and the character of the offender. While considering the nature of the offence, the Court must take a realistic view of the gravity of the offence, the impact which the offence had on the victim. The benefit available to the accused under Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act is subject to the limitation embodied in the provisions and the word "may" clearly indicates that the discretion vests with the Court whether to release the offender in exercise of the powers under Section 3 or 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act, having regard to the nature of the offence and the character of the offender and overall circumstances of the case. The powers under Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act vest with the Court when any person is found guilty of the offence committed, not punishable with death or imprisonment for life. This power can be exercised by the Courts while finding the person guilty and if the Court thinks that having regard to the circumstances of the case, including the nature of the offence and the character of the offender, benefit should be extended to the accused, the power can be exercised by the Court even at the appellate or revisional stage and also by this Court while hearing appeal under Article 136 of the Constitution of India."

24. That it is also noteworthy that Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Mohd. Hashim v. State of U.P and Ors. AIR 2017 SC page 660, was pleased to observe as under:

"20-.....In Rattan Lal v. State of Punjab AIR 1965 SC 444. Subba Rao, J., speaking for the majority, opined thus:-

"The Act is a milestone in the progress of the modern liberal trend of reform in the field of penology. It is the result of the recognition of the doctrine that the object of criminal law is more to reform the individual offender than to punish him. Broadly stated, the Act distinguishes offenders below 21 years of age and those above that age, and offenders who are guilty of having committed an offence punishable with death or imprisonment for life and those who are guilty of a lesser offence. While in the case of offenders who are above the age of 21 years absolute discretion is given to the court to release them after admonition or on probation of good conduct, subject to the conditions laid down in the appropriate provisions of the Act, in the case of offenders below the age of 21 years an injunction is issued to the court not to sentence them to imprisonment unless it is satisfied that having regard to the circumstances of the case; including the nature of the offence and the character of the offenders, it is not desirable to deal with them under Sections 3 and 4 of the Act."

25. That Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Jagat Pal Singh & others vs. State of Haryana AIR 2000 SC 3622 has given the benefit of probation while upholding the conviction of accused persons under Sections 323, 452, 506 I.P.C. and has released the accused persons on executing a bond before the Magistrate for maintaining good behaviour and peace for the period of six months.

26. That it is noteworthy that alleged incident took place way back in the year 1993. The accused-appellant has suffered in matter for past 32 years and there is no criminal antecedent against him and at present the age of the appellant is about 65 years.

27. Considering the fact and circumstances of the case, I am of the view that the benefit of provision of the Act of 1958 should be provided to the accused/appellant.

28. In the light of the above discussion, as far as it relates with the conviction of the appellant Chaitu @ Kuber is maintained but the sentence is modified. Instead of sending the appellant to jail, he is given benefit of Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 and he is directed to file two sureties each to the tune of Rs 20,000/- along with his personal bonds before District Probation Officer concerned also an undertaking to the effect that he shall maintain peace and good behaviour during the period of one year from today. The said bonds are to be filed by the appellant Chaitu @ Kuber within a period of one month from the date of this judgment.

29. In case of breach of any of the above conditions, appellant Chaitu @ Kuber shall be taken into custody and shall have to undergo sentence awarded to him.

30. With the above modification, the instant criminal appeal is partly allowed.

31. A certified copy of the order be also sent to the court concerned for compliance.

32. Office is directed to communicate this order to the court concerned for necessary compliance.

33. Lower court record, if any, shall also be sent back to the district court concerned.
